STEWARDSHIP THOUGHTS FOR YOU...

- * Some people think it's holding on that makes one strong. Sometimes it's letting go! ~ Sylvia Robinson
- * A successful man is one who can lay a firm foundation with the bricks others have thrown at him! ~ D. Brinkley
- * If your actions inspire others to dream more, learn more, do more, and become more, you are a leader! ~ J. D. Adams

Martin Luther on THE CHRISTIAN. (Luther felt that Christians should consider death in a hope-filled way.)

The Stabilizing Effect of the Christian View of Life. Everybody makes himself at home in this temporal life as though we were to stay here eternally. God-fearing people, however, consider their entire life here on earth a pilgrimage, which lacks all permanence, and during which we head forward toward the real and eternal fatherland. When a man is traveling across a country, he has no desire to make his home there, although he is accommodated with a good lodging. He knows that the inn is not his home. Christians react in the same way. They consider life here below as a night's lodging. If they are treated well, they are grateful for it. But if, as is commonly the case, this world is a cold, evil, faithless inn, they comfort themselves with the thought that, after all, it is only a matter of a night and that someday conditions will become better.
